President's Message

Dr Maria Hill

I would like to warmly welcome the new team of very talented people to the SWW committee for 2014-2015. I look forward to working with them to celebrate a very important milestone for the society next year - its 90th anniversary. We are also very fortunate to have on our new committee two very capable Vice-Presidents, Lindsay Lewis and Wendy Michaels. They will be taking my place as President over the next two months, while I am overseas conducting research in Britain, Northern Greece and Cyprus for my new book on World War One. Even Presidents have to take time out from their duties to write - especially in a society such as ours, which aims to encourage women's writing. However I look forward to returning in time for our fabulous festival that was recently featured in the Sydney Morning Herald. I urge you not to delay booking a seat at the festival to ensure you do not miss out. It is very exciting to have as our August guest speaker, Susannah Fullerton - expert on everything 'Jane Austen'. I have to confess that I have had a fascination with Pride and Prejudice since the age of 8 when I first read the novel, so I am eager to hear what Susannah will reveal about its significance. Our membership secretary Sandra Davis will also entertain us with a member talk on her children's book and Isolde Martyn will conduct an engaging workshop on the realities of writing romantic fiction. So join us for another riveting program.

Best wishes, Maria

Workshop Presenter

Love, Generally: Balancing Romance with Reality Isolde Martyn

Isolde enjoys using turbulent historical events as the backdrop of her stories. In 2000, her debut novel, The Maiden and the Unicorn, was the first novel by an Australian to win the prestigious Rita award for 'Best First Novel' from Romance Writers of America and her first two books have won the mainstream 'Romantic Book of the Year Award' in Australia. Her recent novels Mistress to the Crown and The Devil in Ermine are centred on real people.

She has a history honours degree from Exeter University and was lured to these shores after meeting a rather dishy geologist at a bus stop. She has worked in academia and was a senior book editor with Readers Digest General Books. She was glad when she got a publishing contract because How to Fix Just About Anything was a challenge for someone dangerous with a feather duster.

Sharing history has always been her passion and she is a former Chair of the Sydney Richard III Society and co-founder and Vice-chair of the Plantagenet Society of Australia.

Luncheon Speakers

Member Talk

Kenny The Scared Kookaburra Sandra Davis

Sandra Davis ranked herself an absolute writing novice when she began writing Kenny the Scared Kookaburra, her story for 4 to 9 year-olds. Publishing it was a rewarding experience and the book's success has been far beyond her wildest dreams. Sandra will tell how the storyline was born following a chance encounter with a young kookaburra soon after she retired in 2007. She'll share her six year journey, describing how her original plan of 'just home-printing some copies to give to family and friends' became a desire to see the book professionally printed. She'll talk of her good fortune at finding such a talented illustrator; the rewrites; the support of fellow SWW members; the ease of obtaining an ISBN; and her trip through the self-publishing maze – all things that contributed to the joy and satisfaction of producing her first book.

Guest Speaker

Happily Ever After: Celebrating Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice Susannah Fullerton

Susannah Fullerton has been President of the Jane Austen Society of Australia for the past 20 years. She is the author of Jane Austen and Crime, Brief Encounters: Literary Travellers in Australia, A Dance with Jane Austen and Happily Ever After: Celebrating Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice.

Susannah is a well-known speaker on famous writers and their works and regularly gives talks at the State Library, the Art Gallery of NSW, at schools, conferences and clubs. She leads literary tours to the UK, France and the USA for Australians Studying Abroad.

No feud with publisher, says d'Alpuget

Women Writers' inaugural literary festival, to be held at the State Library of NSW on October 18. In her keynote address, it said, "d'Alpuget is taking a swing at publishers, claiming her recent experience was so difficult she has withdrawn from her contract and self-published the second book in her 'young lost' series, which will be launched at the festival." There was a suggestion of an "old feud underlaid" between d'Alpuget and Anna Walldinger, a publisher with HarperCollins who will speak at the festival about the "trials, tribulations, triumphs" of publishing women's writing. "Fascinating stuff, so I called d'Alpuget (pictured), who wanted to tone down this somewhat heated account of her split with

"The announcement of Blanche d'Alpuget's next novel came in a lively press release beaded 'Sparks will fly...' for the Society of Women Writers' inaugural literary festival ..."

The Mitchell Library

By Janet West

Set above lawns and waving palms
And dancing waters of Farm Cove,
A mellow sandstone pile appears.
Ionic columns grace her steps,
Carved memories of a golden age,
When knowledge, art and poetry arose.
Will Shakespeare broods upon his plinth,
Oblivious of the traffic below.
"We are such stuff as dreams are made on,
And our little life is rounded with a sleep."
Here coffered ceilings look down on books
Which furnish memory, feed the soul.
Heads bow before the flickering screen,
Strange deity of our transient age.
A temple of knowledge for seekers all:
Marble her walls and lucent her glass
Enshrining her parchments and musings past.
